Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 12 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Remaining unsettled with showers continuing in days to come.

Today:
Another day of sunny spells and scattered showers, these will turn heavy and possibly thundery at times. Cloud will become widespread during the afternoon as it moves up from the south. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers largely clearing this evening as persistent heavy rain moves up from the south into southern and central Wales overnight. Winds remaining light. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Thursday:
A cloudy day with morning rain clearing to the west by around noon. Rain showers soon follow in the afternoon, these heavy at times and potentially thundery too. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Unsettled throughout. Scattered showers and sunny intervals on Friday. An early band of rain on Saturday with following showers persisting into Sunday. Winds remaining light throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.